DETAILED ACTION

Response to Amendment

In response to applicant's argument that:

"Avery does not teach or suggest a subretinal delivery device having a cannula configured to extend from a reservoir through the retina into a subretinal space when the reservoir is disposed exterior the eye on the sclera or when the reservoir is disposed within the eye, such that an agent in the reservoir is released through the cannula to the eye subretinally" a recitation of the intended use of the claimed invention must result in a structural difference between the claimed invention and the prior art in order to patentably distinguish the claimed invention from the prior art. If the prior art structure is capable of performing the intended use, then it meets the claim. In this particular case, the cited patent discloses the structural elements disclosed in the claims in question, and therefore, it is concluded that the rejections to claims 1-18 and 23 are merited and will be maintained.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Avery et al. (5725493). The cited patent discloses a reservoir, a cannula extending from the reservoir and wherein an agent stored in the reservoir is released through the cannula.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 2-18 and 23 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Avery et al. in view of Krupin (5,454,796) or Memmen (5,370,607). The Avery et al. patent does not disclose a ring-like delivery device. However, such shape designs are conventional in the art as evidenced by the teachings of Krupin or Memmen.

Krupin shows in figure 5 a ring-shaped delivery device. Additionally, Memmen also shows in figure 3, a delivery device shaped as a ring. Based on the above observations, for a person of ordinary skill in the art, it would have been obvious to modify the shape of the delivery device disclosed by Avery et al. with a ring shape as taught by the Krupin or Memmen patents in view of the proven conventionality of the ring-shape modification. Moreover, for an artisan skilled in the art, such shape modification would have been considered another alternative in the process of designing a delivery device apparatus.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 19-22 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
